Factor Abundances in Physical Terms

1. A country where capital is relatively cheaper and labour is relatively costly is called a capital rich country whereas a country where labour is relatively cheaper and capital is relatively costly is said to be a labour rich country.
2. In our two country model country A is capital abundant, if in physical terms the ratio of total amount of capital (TK) to the total amount of labour (TL) that is  $(TK/TL)$  in nation 1 is greater than nation 2 that is  $\frac{TK_1}{TL_1} > \frac{TK_2}{TL_2}$

3. In the diagram, country A is capital abundant therefore, its production possibility curve is skewed towards Y axis.
4. Country B is labour abundant; accordingly, its production possibility curve is skewed towards X-axis.
5. Country A can produce OA of Y commodity, CA quantity more than country B.
6. Country B can produce OD of X commodity, BD quantity more than country A.
7. Country B can produce more of X which is labour intensive because it is a labour abundant country and country A can produce more of Y Commodity which is capital intensive due to its abundant capital.
8. The domestic price lines are  $PP_1$  and  $PP_2$  in countries A and B.
9. The Points E and Q are the respective equilibrium points of production and consumption.
10. The price lines  $P_1$  and  $P_2$  indicate that commodity Y is cheaper in country A and X in country B, providing the basis for trade.

EFFECTS OF SOCIOCULTURAL BELIEVES IN INDIA DURING PANDEMIC COVID-19

V. Shahu

Shri G.P.M. Degree College of Science and Commerce, Mumbai, Maharashtra, India

ABSTRACT

Health is one of the most important part of the life of every individual and a lot of work is going on in this sector, and fortunately there is a lot of enhancement and improvement in the health sector, nowadays, specially for the public health care system, India has witnessed a lot of improvement in the public health sector over last few decades. Diseases like polio, small pox, typhoid, tetanus, etc. have almost been eradicated from the country. Still a lot of improvement in this sector is required for developing countries like India. However crucial this enhancement has become was realized in the duration of COVID-19 pandemic. The entire world faced the bad consequences of this pandemic, particularly developing countries like India suffered losses in resources, society and economic sectors. The most severe loss most of the countries has faced is in terms of the loss of human resource. So many people lost their lives in this duration. Also economic losses in terms of goods and services cannot be overlooked. Developing countries like India which has less resources and many months to feed has been affected badly.

Introduction.

COVID-19 is a disease cause by SARS (Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome). Till now, researchers have found that corona virus spreads through droplets and virus particles spread into air through the intake of it when an infected person talks or laughs or sneezes. It originated from the city of Wuhan in China in the year 2019. This virus has devastated the lives of humans to a great extent. Different countries are trying to overcome the human and economic losses caused to the country due to this pandemic. The pandemic has proved much devastating as compared to previous years experiences. Public health infrastructure needs a lot of improvement has been taught in the COVID-19 pandemic duration when the number of doctors, paramedical staff and even hospitals were not adequate for serving the number of patients affected by the pandemic. The actual victory over the pandemic would be when along with the health sector, the sociocultural factors creating hurdles will be overcome.

Complicating Sociocultural factors

The indicators of the health, society and economics have depicted that the situation can worsen in case of community level spread of the pandemic. These data indicate how sensitive the situation can get for vulnerable population.

On the contrary, pseudo information about health is being broadcasted and telecasted across the globe through various media platforms. Also, India has a different perspective to look at the situation and hence the common man of India gets a lot of misconception about the subject, which makes the situation even more severe. Social media, government media and all different sources of information are affecting the cultural and social sectors of the country to a great extent. [3]

The social impact of COVID-19 on India

The COVID-19 pandemic has created difficulties for the entire world and India is not an exception. The spread of the disease was so rapid that it was declared as Pandemic by WHO. The only solution to this problem is to wear mask maintain social distancing and take vaccination. Also to avoid social parties is the key step.

The solution to overcome this pandemic and to break the chain of spread of this virus, it was required to shut down the country and allow minimum human intervention. Hence, lockdown was the sole choice for saving the countrymen. Specially in the month of March, Government of India stood up with a strong stand in this direction. By the end of the month of March, all internal and external borders of India were sealed. The lockdown period began on 22nd of March, 2020 and continued for several months in this year.

Tourism industry, arts, entertainment recreation are the sectors were reported to be at the extreme risk because of the containment protocols and lockdown across the country. Also sectors like, whole sale and retail trade, transport, food services, accommodation, real estate services, hotels, restaurants, etc were at a high risk. [1]

Conclusion.

Human beings are considered to be the most civilized species on earth and they affect the civil societies and organizations to contribute generously towards the well-being of earth. It is the chief concern for human beings that the economic burden on the weaker sections of the society should be lightened. In this fight against pandemic, human society needs to guard the borders, separating the virus from the mankind, with strictness. As everybody knows that if this virus manages to cross the safety border, the results will be devastating for the human life. Hence, along with the borders separating territories, states and countries, the border separating virus from human life should be tightly checked. [5]

The key note is that the entire man kind should come together, not physically, rather emotionally and through the efforts to ensure the safety of the socioeconomic well-being of the entire society.

India has always been known for its alertness towards physical and mental health because it is strongly believed that if a person has got a strong mind, body and soul, he can defeat any kind of problems or difficulties that come up. Referring to the Sanskrit shloka below, everyone must keep in mind that wealth, a friend, a wife and a kingdom may be regained but when this body is lost, it may never be acquired again.
